

Mobile Dispatcher for iPhone / iPad: A Major Update

We've released a major update to Mobile Dispatcher for iPhone and iPad.

This isn't just a collection of small improvements or minor fixes. We've essentially rebuilt the app from scratch.

The new version is now much closer to Mobile Dispatcher for Android in terms of functionality, supporting most of the key LiveGPSTracks features needed for everyday GPS tracking and monitoring.

What's still missing?

Despite this major update, some features available in the Android version haven't made it to iOS yet. These include:

Reports;

Event log;

Management of stationary objects;

Some features in the financial section;

Certain account management options.

We'll gradually introduce these features in future updates.

Having trouble after updating?

Since the app has been completely rebuilt, we've done our best to make the transition from the old version to the new one as smooth as possible.

However, with such a significant update, some users may experience issues related to migrating from the previous version.

If you notice anything unusual after updating, the first thing we recommend is to uninstall Mobile Dispatcher from your iPhone or iPad and reinstall it.

If the problem persists, please contact our support team. We investigate reported issues, identify their causes, and work on fixing them.

This is the first major update to Mobile Dispatcher for iOS in many years. Our next goal is to gradually bring the iOS version up to the same level of functionality as the Android app and continue developing both versions side by side.
